OLD DOMINION DANCERS IN "GEORGE WASHINGTON"

Beards and mustaches are apparently disappearing from male dancers and musicians of the Old Dominion Dancers of Washington, D.C. as they prepare for September 6 filming of their part in the "George Washington" TV miniseries. According to Barbara Harding, the ODD were recommended by the Smithsonian Institution to the series production staff. The ODD have danced at the Lee Mansion in Arlington Cemetery on many occasions and other places in the D.C. area. Following a brief interview, the successful audition took place on successive Saturdays in July. At NEWS press time, Barbara was working with David Dukes and Barry Bostwick (who plays Washington). Patty Duke-Astin and Jaclyn Smith, the female leads, will be in the cast later.

The eight-part miniseries will air on CBS during the spring of 1984. Billed as a historical drama, the work is based on James T. Flexner's four-volume biography of George Washington and will be produced by MGM.

During the audition process, said Barbara, she and three of her dancers demonstrated a number of dances appropriate to the period around 1766. The production staff looked for flirting opportunities within the dances and wanted a variety of appropriate, authentic formations. Barbara also commented on the assistance of Genny Shimer and Barbara Finney (for "Tomlinson's Minuet" over the phone).

MEMBERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Some time ago your news staff queried the Dialogue Committee about recruiting and holding new members. Each year a certain number of dancers seem to drift away from our groups and recruiting new members, like it or not, becomes a matter of survival. For some organizations, recruitment is no problem. They are large enough, their support is broad-based enough through the community, and new members seem to flow easily into the group. For others, small groups, new groups, membership is a critical, on-going problem.

We have taken the Dialogue Committee responses and put them together with comments from a scheduled discussion at KSDS in Midway, Kentucky, during late May. While at the camp, we had the chance to interview Don Armstrong, nationally known caller, leader, and master teacher of dance from Florida. The following represents comments, ideas, and group identification feelings of the various respondents.

Dr. John Ramsay of the Berea College Country Dancers is also responsible for an adult group in the Berea area. He believes

People stick with Country Dancing because of the easy fellowship it can generate. It is very important for old members to make a point of chatting with first timers and to see that they are invited, but not pressured to dance. If the focus is on fellowship, friendliness will pay off.

Involve girlfriends or boyfriends as often as possible. We lose a good number of dancers when someone outside the group takes their fancy.

The discussion group at Midway also placed quality friendship high on the list of recruiting virtues. They suggested working up a schedule of events for your own group in the form of a flier and taking copies with you wherever you go, particularly to other dances. This advertises your group and suggests, through your behavior, another potentially friendly dance occasion. And, yes, there is often competition for dancers between dance groups in some metropolitan areas. The Detroit-area dancers in the discussion group felt that new members obtained

DIRECTOR OF JOHN C. CAMPBELL FOLK SCHOOL RESIGNS

Mrs. Esther Hyatt, Director of the John C. Campbell Folk School for the past seven years, has resigned effective August 1. The Folk School Board of Directors appointed Robert J. (Bob) Fink, Mrs. Hyatt's administrative assistant, as interim director.

Mrs. Hyatt resigned to take a post with the Cherokee County Department of Social Services, where she will become social work supervisor. She was employed by the agency prior to coming to the Folk School in 1976.

With her background in social work, Mrs. Hyatt's emphasis as director has been on community service within the framework of the traditional folk school philosophy. She has expanded the crafts program, as well as programs in music and dance. She organized an annual humanities program centered around the Appalachian region, initiated a homesteading curriculum designed to recapture and teach basic living skills and values, and launched a capital funds campaign to restore the physical plant of the school.

SWORD DANCE and MUMMING ALE

The fliers have been released announcing an unusual event of interest to CDSS members everywhere: The First Minnesota Sword Dance & Mumming Ale to be held at Minneapolis, Minnesota, January 6-8, 1984. Since this occurs so soon after the Christmas Holidays, groups should organize their trips as soon as possible.

According to the flier, this will be "A Celebration of Midwinter Traditions, featuring long sword and rapper dancing, Mummers' Plays, workshops, performance tours, and the best Twelfth Night Party in the Upper Midwest!" The contact people suggest that groups planning to attend "Let us know how many of you would like to attend and what dances or plays you do. Please respond as soon as possible so that the appropriate arrangements can be made."

The event is sponsored by the Minnesota Traditional Morris and Ritual Drama Team. Contact either Rudd Rayfield, 1016 W. 27th Street, Minneapolis, MN 55408 (612-377-5291), or Larry Klueh, 1936 Roblyn, St. Paul, MN 55104 (612-646-5649).

through personal contact had a much higher retention level than those recruited other ways. Diane Schmidt, Baltimore Folk Music Society, indicated "Our group is known for its friendliness, which keeps people coming back."

While this speaks to the need for personal involvement and one-to-one contacts, there are group actions that can help recruiting too. KSDS dancers suggested occasional demonstrations, as opposed to elitist public performances. This approach is suggested by "Here is what we do the first and third Friday night of each month." Burt Schwartz, well-known Michigan caller, urges that such demonstrations include activities of a "community dance nature," i.e., no partners, no experience, etc." And he also suggested beginners' classes for those who "don't feel comfortable jumping into deep water!"

Harry Frankland of the San Diego Center and Liz Snowdon from the Germantown Country Dancers shared similar views in recruiting for the Country Dance and Song Society proper: Reduced prices for CDSS members, outward and visible signs of the national organization and local affiliation such as Tee shirts, buttons, banners, plaques (Harry was kind enough to send a fine sample plaque to your editor.), and flyers, etc.

The interview with Don Armstrong reinforced many of the opinions expressed above. This was especially true in terms of group demonstrations, as opposed to performances or exhibitions with costumes. Armstrong did differentiate between calling and leading. He feels that too much emphasis nowadays is given to calling and not enough to all-round dance leadership.

A leader, according to Armstrong, is first a program planner, designing well-balanced, varied, happy, interesting dance occasions. A leader teaches the group what it needs at the moment, not simply what the leader likes. There are many dances a group may need that a leader will not do because of excessive repetition and boredom on the leader's part, not that of the dancers. Always go to a dance with a planned program. You may have to change it, a little or a lot, but prepare carefully.

Don also spoke of a "pyramid effect" in dancing activities. The more complex, the fewer potential dancers will be interested and available. Dancer development and retention comes from sharing a variety of dances and styles. New dancers are not overwhelmed, older dancers are not bored.

In summary, recruiting and retention come from individual contact and friendship, group activities that draw membership, and quality leadership realized through planning interesting, happy, varied dance occasions.

Comments from the membership are invited and will be printed unless otherwise requested.

SUMMER DANCE CAMP REPORTS

Boston's Ritual Dance Days

The first annual Ritual Dance Days was held at Pinewoods Camp, July 5-8. This event was sponsored by CDS-Boston Centre, coordinated by Bob Paul and Cynthia Whear, and run by Diedre Bialo-Palin and Deborah Small.

Dancers came from New England, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia. Instructors Andrea Barrand, Jim Morrison, Gary Undercuffler, and David Macemon taught classes in English ritual dancing including Cotswold Morris, Border Morris, Rapper, English Clogging, and Northwest Morris. Jim Morrison led the evening dances. Various classes provided demonstrations at the last evening dance party. There was ample free time to enjoy the pond, the raft, and the canoes, between classes.

Plans are already being made for the second annual Ritual Dance Days, including an extra day for classes.

June Dance Week at Brasstown.

The Dance Week at the John C. Campbell Folk School held in June has always combined elements of CDSS Pinewoods Weeks and the Berea Christmas School, on a smaller scale and with the special flavor you find in that rather remote corner of North Carolina. The School is located in beautiful farming country at the edge of the mountains. In June it can be really hot during the day so dancing in Open House is a pleasure when you can get a breeze coming over the open fields. It is always cool at night in the outlying cottages and the camp ground. The latter is an attractive feature for quite a number of people.

For the program this past June we had sessions in English Country, Morris and Long Sword, Danish Country Dance, American Singing Squares and New England Contras, Appalachian Big Circle, Squares, Clogging, and Leadership. All these were led by Genny Shimer, Bob Dalsemer, Don Davis, John Ramsay and Laura Sprung. There was dulcimer playing and singing with Edna Ritchie Baker, recorders with Johanna Kulbach, and band practice with Steve Hickman. After being at Brasstown for so many Dance Weeks, the highlights for me this year were hearing Steve's "Brasstown Philharmonic" play for the dance the final night (the biggest band we have ever had and very good indeed!); listening to Don Davis telling stories about the Jollies and his Uncle Frank, on the sun deck in that hour before the evening meal; watching corn-husk dolls grow from scratch under Edna's guidance; enjoying the evening picnic at Fire's Creek, where the bold swam or paddled in the icy water, and we all ate hot dogs and watermelon. That picnic was followed by a wonderful dance led by callers from numerous CDSS centers.

As for the dancing, it was of high standard all week. Who could fail, with the music of Steve, Ann Leach, Lisle Kulbach, Dave Brewin and George Schiebler? The local folk who joined us for the evening dances were all experienced and it was good to have community participation. Our final evening drew a good crowd. The local Women's Garland Dance team made its first appearance at a June Dance Week. Many people in the audience had never seen a garland dance and since the women performed beautifully and looked lovely, they were greeted with much applause. It gave the finishing touch to another successful June Dance Week.

A LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

In his review of my book, West Virginia Square Dances, which appeared in the summer issue of the DSS News, William Litchman states:

In some cases, there are striking characteristics about the figures and how they are done or the calls used to prompt the dancer. One example is the ladies' 'right and left through' as done in Dunmore. This is a very unusual figure because the ladies do not even do what is called. No explanation is ventured for this.

The figure Mr. Litchman mentions is not from Dunmore but from New Creek (p. 12). In any event I should point out that the ladies at New Creek do precisely what is called, it's just that the call (and calls are always a form of shorthand) means something different to them than to you or I or Mr. Litchman. Hopefully to my credit I point this out on p. 13 when I say "Note that the term 'right and left through' as used in the call is not only undescriptive, but bears no relation to figures of the same name in other styles of square dancing." One of my aims in writing the book was to give my fellow revival dancers a sense of cultural relativity!

Yours Truly
Bob Dalsemer

FOLK SCHOOL SEEKS NEW DIRECTOR

With the resignation of Mrs. Esther Hyatt (see related story this issue) the Board of Directors of the John C. Campbell Folk School, Brasstown, North Carolina, is seeking a new director for the institution. The recently inaugurated Christmas Week follows a long tradition of the school's support for CDSS activities. Fall and spring dance weekends and summer dance and recorder weeks are familiar to many CDSS members. Mrs. Olive Dame Campbell, one of the school's founders, was instrumental in helping Cecil Sharp with his ballad collecting activities in the Appalachian region.

The search committee appointed by the board of directors is seeking candidates with a grasp and commitment to the folk school philosophy and concept, strong managerial and public relations skills, and an orientation to community service. Applicants with a degree from a four-year college are preferred. Administrative experience is a must, and knowledge of fiscal management, folk arts, and crafts is an asset.

Resumes and references may be sent to the Search Committee, John C. Campbell Folk School, Brasstown, North Carolina 28902.

FROM THE EDITOR

OH CAPTION, DEAR CAPTION

We are soliciting particular kinds of articles and materials for the next issue:

Christmas and Winter Dance Weekend Planners: Tell us about your upcoming event. Use a style similar to the summer dance week issue, April-May (News No. 52).

Summer Dance Camp Leaders: Send us reports similar to the KSDS Report in the last issue and the Boston Ritual Days and Brasstown dance events in this issue. Make us feel badly because we were not there, and set us up for next year's repeat.

The Figure in the next column needs a caption: pretend he's your drawn cartoon and give us a humorous tag line or editorial comment.
